WHY DO I NEED A GENERATOR?

In the last past decade, the growth of electricity consumption in the US has continued to outpace the growth of electricity production. The increased pressure on the grid, combined with aging infrastructure and the threat of severe weather leaves homes and business much more prone to future power outages. The best way to avoid this problem is with a home standby generator.

The home standby generator monitors voltage from the utility line and if the power flow is interrupted, the generator activates and begins supplying power within seconds.

Did You Know?

In the summer of 2011, Hurricane Irene left 754,000 households (around half of Connecticut) without power- many of them for over a week.
